ABOUT TOWN.

Leat begins the twenty seventh. New Jersey Baptists have 179 churches and 33,616 members. Mr. A. L. Farrington arrived home from Europe Thursday, by the steamer City of Chicago.

During the past week a corps of bridge builders have examined and slightly repaired the railroad bridge crossing the creek between Bloomfield and Glenridge.

A large party of Bloomfielders were entertained by Mrs. Schilling and her son-in-law a few evenings since. Dancing and other amusements were enjoyed until a late hour.

The next Seminary lecture on Tuesday, the twenty-sixth, will be by Dr. H. E. Richards. Subject, "Scientific Exactness of the Bible; The Molten Globe; The Universal Sea; The First Land." While so much good is being accomplished by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Montclair, the question arises, Where are our temperance advocates? There is plenty of work for such a society in Bloomfield.

The question has been asked if there is any law under which the drainage of lands in townships can be effected? In the Laws of 1881, on page 195, the question is answered, where provision is made for the appointment of commissioners, etc.

Mr. H. Knapp, an employee of the Hayden Brass Mill, was quite seriously injured last week, by being caught in a brass-drying machine; one rib was broken, and he was otherwise internally injured. Mr. Knapp is the fourth man who has been injured in this machine.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Barrett, on Bellevue Avenue, their daughter, Soda R. Barrett, and Charles R. Bourne were, united in marriage on Thursday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends were present at the ceremony and subsequent reception.

Mrs. N. B. Adams, of Thomas Street, met with a very painful accident on Wednesday morning, while securing some clothes which had become loosened from the line. Stepping on a board she slipped falling on her left arm, breaking it just above the wrist. Dr. White set the fracture.

Ex-Sheriff Van Rensselaer and ex-Clerk Dusenbury, of Newark, were driving on Bloomfield Avenue last Saturday, when their carriage collided with one coming in an opposite direction, driven by Moses Van Winkle. Both carriages were considerably damaged, but the occupants escaped uninjured.

As there has been doubt in the minds of some of our readers as to the time for holding town elections, we publish an extract from the Laws of 1876, page 297, "All town meetings in the several towns and townships of this State for the election of town and township officers, shall be held on the second Tuesday of March, in each and every year."

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Hill celebrated the fifth anniversary of their wedding at their house in Lake Street, on Monday evening. About eighty guests were present to tender their congratulations, many of them coming from Newark. Mr. John Munk with, leader of the Orange Band, furnished the music. Mrs. and Mrs. Hill received from their friends many tokens commemorative of the occasion.

Several Bloomfield gentlemen were guests of St. John's Lodge, F. & A. M., of Newark, in their 83d celebration of Washington's Birthday. The principal address of the evening was by Post Grand Master Whitehead, which, as usual with these celebrations, was of a patriotic character. After a bountiful collation, Grand Master Velslage, Mayor Haynes, ex-Mayor Ricord, Sheriff Wright and others responded to toasts. Good music by a male quartet helped in the passing of a very pleasant evening. This Lodge has a justifiable pride in the fact that it was honored by visits from Gen. Washington, and also by it Gen. La Fayette was made a Mason, and the Bible and some of the implements used in the work of that occasion are still held as sacred mementoes.

A literary entertainment was given in Catholic Union Hall last evening, in which John J. Carolan, of Montclair, gave some very interesting dramatic readings and recitations. The programme was as follows: Part I.—Piano Solo, Mrs. H. J. Sayers; The Ride of Jennie McNeal, Will. Carleton; The Irish Philosopher, Fred. Macabae; Poor Little Joe, D. L. Proudfit; Soprano Solo, Mrs. J. L. Walsh; Phil. Blood's Leap, A Tale of the Gold Seekers, Robt. Buchanan. Part II.—Quartette, the Misses and Messrs. O'Brien; The Enchanted Shirt, John Hay; The Vagabonds, J. T. Trowbridge; Dot Baby Off Mine, C. F. Adams; Baritone Solo, Mr. James L. Walsh; Are the Children at Home? Margaret E. Sangster; The Ship of Faith, Anon.; Shamus O'Brien, J. S. Le Fanu; Piano Solo, Mrs. H. J. Sayers.

The Newark District M. E. Conference held their annual session in the M. E. Church of this place, on Tuesday. About seventy-five delegates were present. Among them were clergymen, local preachers, exhorters, Sunday-school superintendents and church officials. Rev. Dr. Knowles, Presiding Elder of the District, presided. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Stong of Drew Theological Seminary, and Rev. Jacob Todd, of Newark. At noon a dinner was served in the church parlor to seventy-five delegates, after which a vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies who had so abundantly provided for them. On Monday p.m., previous to the session, an examination of Local Preachers and candidates for admission to the General Conference was conducted. A business session was held on Tuesday a.m., when the business of the district was prepared for the General Session. Fifty churches were represented at the meeting.

Montclair Items. AROUND TOWN. The Second Concert in the Popular Course of Entertainments will be given in the Congregational Church. Mr. Chas. M. Schott, Jr., Foreman of Montclair Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, arrived home on Tuesday last. We hope to see him out soon.

Almost a blaze the other evening on the Orange road, near Fullerton Avenue—but luckily—considering the high wind which was blowing, no public alarm was necessary, as it was seen in time.

On Friday evening, Feb. 29th, the Committee announce Prof. Geo. W. Morgan, organist, and his daughter Miss M. Morgan, harpist, as among those who will appear. They of themselves are a host, and should draw a full house.

Bloomfield has its Essex No. 1 Bazar. So "Our City Fathers" order that the various plans for Town Buildings be framed and hung in the Post Office, with estimate attached, so that our people may see them. Come up and see our picture gallery—admission free.

Will there ever be a fire? asks ESSEX No. 1; and also says: Now "we are compelled to sleep with both ears open," but after we get our big bell we "will be allowed to slumber with one ear buried in the pillow." We sympathize with you in your affliction on the first question—for we have waited at least three months longer, and are afraid we shall have to not only keep both ears open, but hire a man to call us when there is a fire, for our present alarm is even worse than Bloomfield's—and we have not only no fire, but no fire! no house! no bell!!! but if we have a fire in the day time (say near the Bloomfield line), we "don't get left."

LITERARY—ROBERT BURNS. On Wednesday evening Feb. 18th when the Literary began, the lecture room of the Congregational Church was filled. Dr. Marvin, as usual, presided, and announced the programme.

Music, Scottish Melodies. Piano. Essay, "Robert Burns." Mr. Littlejohn, Sr.

Music, Song—"Of the air the wind can blow." Burns. Mrs. Littlejohn.

Readings—"To a Mouse, on turning her up in her nest with the plough." Mrs. Littlejohn.

"To a Mountain Daisy, on turning one down with the plough." Mrs. Littlejohn.

Readings—"To the Unco Gude." Mrs. Littlejohn.

"A Bard's Epitaph." Mrs. Littlejohn.

"For a' that, and a' that." Mrs. Littlejohn.

Music, Song—"O wert thou in the cold blast." Burns. Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Littlejohn.

Reading—"Epistle to Davie." Miss Goodell.

Reading—"To Mary in Heaven." Miss Turner.

Music, Song—"O whistle, and I'll come to ye." Burns. Mrs. Edwards.

To an Encore—"Coming thro' the Rye." Mrs. Littlejohn.

Reading—"Tam o' Shanter." Mrs. Littlejohn.

To an Encore.—Music. Song—"John Anderson, my Jo, John, and for the closing, the audience, led by Mrs. Littlejohn, sang "Auld Lang Syne."

The ventilation was very much better, and all enjoyed thoroughly the feast that the committee had prepared.

The Bazar. As we go to press in the midst of the Bazar, it is impossible for us to summarize the results. But already there have been over two thousand tickets of admission taken in, and the various booths and departments have in every case done very handsomely.

Library Hall certainly never looked so prettily as it does this Friday evening. Bloomfield's beauty is out in force—and the way in which the music of "Essex No. 1" has been utilized to-day is far from being feeble. A constant guard is kept day and night, and fire extinguishers are on hand in case of any danger. The Hall is handsomely festooned with flags and long pieces of bunting. Fire hats are perched here and there upon salient angles; and the promise of the Truck Company that prices should be reasonable, and all arrangements made pleasant, has been amply redeemed both by the appearance of the room and the character of the entertainments offered. It would be the most agreeable task in the world for one to particularize the various booths. At the Chocolate Pavilion, under a thatch of straw and with a very artistic light, the ladies in attendance are selling a cup of chocolate and take the cup away for a quarter. The Flower Bower is in the centre of the Hall, and it is a bower indeed. The smaller young ladies are busy in the interest of the Grab Bag, the Pop Corn, and the advertising sheet of "Essex No. 1." The fancy tables are really noticeable for the fine variety of work displayed. It is plain that the ladies of Bloomfield have not been idle during these six weeks of preparation. The Lemonade Well runs hot or cold, just as you desire; and tells your happy fortune, rolled up in a peanut shell, for an infinitesimal sum of money. At the south end of the Hall, the stage is protected—and well it has to be—by a canopy of striped canvas, which makes the different refreshment pleasant to take and to sit around. While down in the Town Committee Room there is a Loan Collection, of which—for its decided value in a historic point of view—we propose to notice more at large next week. The Voting Stand reported results last evening as follows, with all day Saturday before it in which to turn the tide of war:

Set of Medical Works for the most popular physician:
Dr. White - 37
" Davis - 23
" Bailey - 23
" Wilson - 16
" Pitt - 71

Silk quilt for the most popular lady:
Miss Close - 50
Miss Puffer - 100
Mrs. G. W. Smith - 7

Rubber coat and boots for the most popular fireman:
J. Dalrymple - 42
Adam Lind - 5
F. G. Tower - 11
I. F. Johnson - 12

Braithwaite's Retrospect is to be voted to the most popular physician; a rubber coat and boots to the most popular fireman; and an exceeding beautiful silk quilt (though we wish it wasn't quite so fireman-like) to the most popular lady. Thus it is expected that as all the physicians, firemen and ladies are popular anyhow, it may not be so easy to settle the matter in debate.

The Shooting Gallery was doing a fine business in the Upper Hall. At first we were fearful that it might be a dangerous as well as an interesting sport; but it was soon well in hand and we hope to have no mishaps of any sort—there or elsewhere—to chronicle. The day was delightful, and already the success of the enterprise has been thoroughly assured.

THE CITIZEN has always pursued the plan of entire fairness, according to its light and knowledge, with every entertaining and public exhibition. It is, therefore, with no desire to be simply agreeable that we say the Bazar is an admirable affair in all particulars. It shows excellent planning and executive ability throughout. But we shall never be happy until it becomes impossible for boys to race and romp in the gallery. That, however, and a certain unpleasant squeaking and fling of toy whistles, earlier in the evening, was soon disposed of by summary methods, and the best of order, as a rule, prevailed.

We give, instead of more and further notice of each department, the full list of those concerned in Bloomfield's best Bazar.

One of the prettiest and neatest effects of the evening was produced by young Master "Chips" Chitterling, who appeared as his uncle's nephew in a miniature fireman's uniform, and with an "Essex" tagline cap of the regulation pattern. This fireman was most heartily received by his big comrades.

The Opera.
To the Bloomfield Citizen:
I wonder which one of the staff of five (?) wrote the editorial in reference to the Opera in THE CITIZEN of 16th instant? Whoever it was must have been troubled with an "excess of bile" or a "plentiful lack" of money to have written so much in such a strain. I go to the opera whenever I can, and always feel more than repaid, taking it in preference to a "pure and wholesome comedy."

I have sat away up in the peanut gallery and down among the "fashionable" people, and generally found that we all paid a strict attention to the music, because we liked it. I have even had those "hot chills of musical feeling" up and down my spinal a great many times on account of fine music rendered by lesser stars than Patti or Campanini. I may be an exception.

I venture to say that with the exception of a few ultras, people nowadays go to the opera to hear the best music, and there is where they get it, though sometimes a little high-priced. One has to buy his tickets far in advance in order to avoid the rush of people who love opera-music so much that they even are willing to sit up in the garret to get a taste, "squeaking fiddles, screeching horns" and "cracked voices" to the contrary notwithstanding.

As regards Mr. Abbey and the Metropolitan Opera House, I think he is like the small boy and the fibbers in the school reader; and the house itself is an immense large, cold and unsympathetic barn, fit only for balls and the like.

F. M. HINKLE.
Woman Suffrage.
To the Citizen:
It may be of interest to the 200 Bloomfield signers of the Woman Suffrage petition to know that it has been presented to the Assembly, and a Committee of Three appointed to consider it.
